PROMOTIONS—At the end of the year, at the close of the summer term in June, each pupil whose standing, computed, from daily recitations and the regular examinations, averages for all studies 70 per cent shall be promoted to the next higher grade. ## REPORT OF THE SUPERINTENDENT OF SCHOOLS.

The eleventh annual report of the superintendent of schools, my second report, is herewith presented.

The present enrollment by schools and grades is as follows:

SCHOOLS.	GRADES.										TOTAL.
	I	II	III	IV	V	VI	VII	VIII	IX	X
Primary.....	43	32									75
Intermediate.....			26	30							56
Sub-Grammar.....					27	16					43
Grammar.....							18	21			39
High.....									18	1	19
West Hill.....	7	4	2	0	1	0	0	0			14
Total.....	50	36	28	30	28	16	18	21	18	1	246

The large class of beginners made the employment of an assistant for grade one necessary. It is impossible to instruct a class of over forty in the time given the first grade, under our present necessary half-time arrangement for grades one and two. All the time not given to grade one by this extra teacher was spent as an assistant and special teacher in grades two, three and four, all of which are large classes.

The expense of transporting the larger number of children now on West hill made the opening of that school seem advisable. This school takes eleven children from the primary school and three from higher grades.

Of the twenty-four pupils who were graduated from the eighth grade in June, seventeen entered the high school, and with the two tuition pupils from Fitzwilliam and the second year pupils, filled this room to its extreme seating capacity.

From inquiries which I have made, it appears that sixteen and perhaps seventeen of these pupils intend to continue their high school course. Sixteen pupils in the eighth grade have signified their intention to enter high school next fall. This would make a school of at least thirty-two pupils and we cannot seat over twenty.

This increase in interest in high school education ought to be very gratifying to all who are interested in the welfare of our community, although it presents a serious problem in the school situation. To send this second year class, or as many members of it as would be able to go out of town to high school, away, will involve a considerable expense and effect no saving in home expenditures, if a one-year course is still maintained. This question ought not to be decided without considering the interests of those pupils who would not be able to go out of town for another year's work if the second year course is discontinued here.

The requirement of the state authorities has been met by the purchase of such history reference books as are needed and the Troy High school is approved for its two-year course. Some additions to the supplementary reading material have been made and the new edition of the geography used in the fifth and sixth grades was purchased in exchange for the old books which were worn out. A clock was purchased for the primary school and the pupils have purchased and presented clocks to the sub-grammar and grammar schools.

Changes have been made in the program of studies to conform with the State Program of Studies for the elementary schools of New Hampshire. To avoid confusion of terms, the third and fourth grade room is now designated as intermediate, and the fifth and sixth grade room as sub-grammar.

To more nearly equalize the time for the first and second grades, one of which comes each half day, the morning session will close at eleven forty-five and the afternoon session commence at one o'clock, during the spring term.

I wish to express my appreciation of the faithful and efficient services of the teachers and of the interest and effort of the supervisors, whose reports are presented with this report.

Respectfully submitted,

JAMES N. PRINGLE,
Superintendent of Schools.

East Jaffrey, N. H., Feb. 15, 1911.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF MUSIC.

To Mr. James N. Pringle, Superintendent of Schools:

Wonderful improvement in the methods of teaching music in the public schools has been made in the last fifteen years.

The articles appearing in the music periodicals, from time to time, show that much thought is being given to the problem of advancing the work still further, and to the solution of the difficulties involved in teaching "time," "tune," "expression" and the quality of tone, and compressing this instruction into the limited period devoted each week to music.

Another problem often discussed is how to keep alive the interest of the child, which must be accomplished to obtain satisfactory results, and many devices have been suggested to relieve the monotony of the exercise drill.

We have spent considerable time this winter in visiting the schools in and around Boston, to learn what is being done there in music, and to get help and inspiration, to bring to our schools.

We find that the pupils here are quite as far advanced as those in the city schools. We were particularly impressed, however, with the sweet quality of tone which they get in the city schools. We have tried, with partial success to impress upon our grade teachers the fact that little volume of tone is required in their schools, and shall continue to emphasize this. A remark recently made by an outside observer suggests one explanation of the difference in the quality of tone. It was, that city children are not permitted to scream on the street, as do the country children. But a child's enthusiasm ought not to be suppressed, for only by arousing this, is pleasure derived and progress hastened. We shall give this subject further careful consideration.

It requires much thought to decide what not to teach. We should aim to teach the reality, and not the device, to teach music, rather than methods, in a broad-minded intelligent way. We must study to adapt the teaching to the needs of the individual schools, so that the pupil will be better equipped for life, both musically and socially.

A small proportion of the pupils of each school will seek advanced training, but the mission of the public school is to teach boys and girls to read and understand music, so that they may appreciate and enjoy it all through their lives. The music for the masses must certainly be found in the schools, and if it is not taught there, many a child will never know anything of it, and will then miss much throughout his whole life.

Crowded concert halls and opera houses in Boston and elsewhere testify to a growing interest in music in this country.

At one of the meetings of the National Music Teachers Association held in Boston in December last, it was recommended that every grade teacher have some musical training, since so much of the music instruction falls on her. We are fortunate in having here, teachers who understand the principals of music, although some of them do not sing. We have sometimes obtained excellent results from teachers who have never sung with their pupils, but they have had to be real teachers, interested in the subject, and skilled in the art of teaching.

We have tried to follow out, as far as possible, the grading recommended in the "Program of Studies" for the schools of New Hampshire. Added to this we try to secure individual sight singing, and have the children marked for their efforts. Experience has taught us that this is the only way to find out the proficiency of each child. "Sight Singing Readers" are now published which are every way desirable for this part of the work, and are a great help to the regular teacher. We are using these in another town with excellent results.

The supervisors with whom we have talked are agreed that standard, familiar songs ought to receive more attention, the pupils committing these songs to memory, just as they do the familiar poems. This is recommended in the "Program of Studies" for New Hampshire, but a book containing such selections would have to be furnished the schools, so that the labor of writing them on the blackboard would not be expected of any teacher.

This year we have given more time to ear-training, the pupils listening to the teacher, and interpreting what they hear.

During the winter term, in the absence of the supervisor, the work has been so planned that each teacher has known just what was expected of her. Each regular teacher has kept a record of all work accomplished for the special teacher to refer to, which has enabled the supervisor to smooth out the rough places. Such a procedure instead of resulting in a loss of interest on the part of teachers and pupils, has acted as an incentive to accomplish something each week, without supervision. The work has gone steadily forward.

The children are trained to take an erect position, natural and relaxed, while singing, and the teachers strive to secure distinct articulation and purity of tone.

In the upper class the high school proper, are seated in the center, as leaders, which gives them some responsibility and they are often called upon as a semi-chorus by themselves. It is encouraging to report that we have a volunteer boys chorus and a girls chorus from this class. At each rehearsal of the full upper class, after the drill exercises have been gone over, three proficient high school pianists take turns in playing accompaniments for the class.

Throughout all the grades the pupils are marked for their efforts. If we can vitalize the child through song, it will stir his whole nature and show its influence in every other subject studied.

Respectfully submitted,

LIZZIE MARIA MAYNARD,

Supervisor of Music.

REPORT OF SUPERVISOR OF DRAWING.

Mr. J. N. Pringle, Superintendent of Schools:

The work began with the usual drawing from nature. Drawings of fall flowers and fruits in pencil and color were made.

In the lower grades, measuring, object drawing and illustrative work has been taken up. Water-color work began this year in the fourth grade. The work in the upper grades consists of object drawing, working drawings, shadowing and water-color paintings. In connection with the latter the children have taken especial interest in stencil work. The seventh and eighth grades have had a few lessons in charcoal. Free hand drawing necessarily comes in to the course in all the schools in connection with other branches.

The West Hill school has used the same outlines as the village.

It gives me pleasure to see the parents and friends of the children in the schoolroom as it is there the very best work can be seen.

I wish to thank all, especially the superintendent and teachers, for their kind support given me since I have taken up my duties in Troy.

Respectfully submitted,

AMY B. KNEELAND,
Supervisor of Drawing.
